

How did you come to know of Dodwell & Co?

I was introduced to them by a friend in Singapore's legal fraternity. I needed Dodwell's expertise to help defend me against a frivolous and vexatious writ. I had no one else to turn to.

Describe your experience with Dodwell.

It was positive, supportive and informative throughout the whole process. Dodwell's excellent legal team won the case for me. During the trial I was advised very well and I was given different options that were honest and upright, and I had to substantiate my counterclaims with evidence and proof. They became, in effect, my sister's and my guardians against injustice. There were complications in the process because the plaintiffs suing me were ostensibly my parents; but actually, the true litigants, it was discovered during trial, were my older brother and his wife. Alfred Dodwell and his colleague Terence Tan were clever and astute in their questioning of the witnesses so that the truth was elicited. I spent many hours with the legal team at Dodwell's offices and received much coaching and support from them, because I'd never been sued before.

So you would recommend them?

Yes, I highly recommend them. Aside from all the above-mentioned reasons, they're also a small firm with a big heart, so their service is prompt and personal.
